“FUCHS PETROLUB grows encouraging in all regions of the world, particularly in China and the USA. The future-oriented investments, this year focusing on Germany and Australia, are making progress. As a result of rising raw material costs, the strong euro and planned cost increases, growth in earnings is disproportionately. The free cash flow reflects our growth strategy.”

Stefan Fuchs, Chairman of the Executive Board of FUCHS PETROLUB SE

Business development in the first nine months of 2017

DEVELOPMENT OF SALES REVENUES IN THE GROUP

Development of sales revenues in the Group
(in € million)

- Significant, primarily volume-driven growth in sales revenues of 9.4 % to € 1,862 million (1,703)
- Particularly strong organic growth in Asia-Pacific, Africa and North and South America
- Slight external growth through acquisitions in 2016 in North America

DEVELOPMENT OF SALES REVENUES BY REGION / SEGMENT

Europe (in € million)

Europe achieves a 5.7 % increase in sales revenues to € 1,142 million (1,080)

- Organic growth in sales revenues throughout the region, with the exception of Scandinavia
- Opposing currency effects, mainly from the Russian ruble (+) and the British pound (-), almost balance each other out

Asia-Pacific, Africa (in € million)

Asia-Pacific, Africa grows by 20.7 % to € 544 million (451)

- Strong organic growth in China, as well as high growth rates in Australia and South Africa
- Positive currency effect from the South African rand and the Australian dollar; largely eroded by the weaker Chinese renminbi

North and South America (in € million)

North and South America achieves growth of 16.3 % to € 302 million (260)

- Organic growth in North America in particular
- Additional growth due to company acquisitions in the USA in 2016
- Slightly positive currency contribution from the Brazilian real

Europe records EBIT of € 146 million (149), down by € 3 million or 2.0 % on the previous year

- Significant increase in earnings in specialty business
- Reduced earnings contributions from Scandinavia, particularly due to sales revenue effects, and from the UK as a result of Brexit
- Sales price increases driven by raw material prices are taking effect only with a time lag

Asia-Pacific, Africa increases EBIT by € 8 million or 8.6 % to € 98 million (90)

- Increases seen primarily in China, Australia and South Africa
- EBIT growth in China cannot keep up with the high growth rates for sales revenues, mainly due to mix effects

North and South America generate year-on-year increase in EBIT of 5.5 % or € 3 million to € 50 million (47)

- Less than proportional EBIT development in North America due to mix effects and delayed sales price adjustments
- Positive effect from settlement of a tax dispute in South America

Outlook

Global macroeconomic conditions have improved further over the past few months. The International Monetary Fund (IMF) therefore raised its forecast for growth in the global economy in 2017 in October to 3.6 %.

The FUCHS Group's business performance in the first nine months of 2017 was also good and we expect the strong growth in sales revenues to continue.

So far, increases in raw material prices have not been passed on as quickly as expected. It will probably not be possible to compensate for the effects of this over the year as a whole.

In the third quarter, inventories recorded substantial growth, particularly in connection with the strong growth in sales revenues in the Asia-Pacific, Africa region. This effect is also likely to continue in the following months. In addition, we are continuing our investments in new plants and plant expansions.

In this context, we have updated our overall outlook:

- Growth in sales revenues of 7 % to 10 % for the year as a whole
- Sales revenue outlook includes only slight currency effects
- EBIT just under/on a par with the previous year (€ 371 million)
- Free cash flow before acquisitions probably not over € 150 million
- FUCHS Value Added slightly down year-on-year due to increased capital costs

With regard to the regional development, we expect the trend from the first three quarters to continue, meaning that growth in sales revenues and earnings will primarily be attributable to the Asia-Pacific, Africa region.

NOTE REGARDING THE QUARTERLY STATEMENT

This quarterly statement is a translation from the German version. In the event of deviations, the German version takes precedence.

NOTE ON ROUNDING

Due to rounding, numbers presented in this quarterly statement may not add up precisely to totals provided, and percentages stated may not precisely reflect the absolute figures to which they refer.

DISCLAIMER

This quarterly statement contains statements about future developments that are based on assumptions and estimates by the management of FUCHS PETROLUB SE. Statements about future developments are all statements that do not refer to historical facts and events and such forward-looking formulations as “believes,” “estimates,” “assumes,” “expects,” “anticipates,” “forecasts,” “intends,” “could,” “will,” “should,” or similar formulations. Even if the management is of the opinion that these assumptions and estimates are accurate, future actual developments and future actual results may differ significantly from these assumptions and estimates due to a variety of factors. These factors can, for example, include changes in the overall economic climate, changes in procurement prices, changes to exchange rates and interest rates, and changes within the lubricants industry. FUCHS PETROLUB SE provides no guarantee that future developments and the results actually achieved in the future will match the assumptions and estimates set out in this quarterly statement and assumes no liability for such. We do not assume any obligation to update the future-oriented statements made in this quarterly statement.
