

MPH Health
Care AG

Interim Report 2020

Mission statement

As an investment company, the strategic focus of our activities is on companies in high growth segments of the health care market. This includes services covered by health insurances (first health care market) as well as privately financed services (so-called "second health care market").

Based on the current demographic development, an aging society and the associated increase in health and body awareness, the health care market is expected to continue growing strongly in the coming years. We want to exploit this potential.

We work in partnership with our portfolio companies. The aim is to generate the growth of the subsidiaries portfolio company itself, and subsequently increase the corporate value of MPH Health Care AG.

However, MPH Health Care AG does not focus exclusively on the health care market. Other industries also offer opportunities for investments into fast-growing sectors, whose opportunities we would like to exploit and expand.

Dear Shareholders, Ladies and Gentlemen, in the wake of the Corona crisis, the German economy experienced a historic decline in economic output in the first half of 2020. Public and economic life is still severely restricted in many areas affected by so-called „shutdowns“, which have subsequently led to extensive impacts on the labour market, industrial production and consumer demand, among other things.

Fortunately, the business climate in Germany continues to improve after the Corona-related crash in April. The Ifo Business Climate Index for August climbed by 2.2 to 92.6 points, according to the Munich-based Ifo Institute. „The German economy is on course for recovery,“ says Ifo President Clemens Fuest. It is already the fourth increase in a row. However, the pre-crisis level has not yet been reached, which for example in February was still at 95.8 index points. ¹⁾ The monthly report of the Deutsche Bundesbank also assumes that after the sharp decline in the first half of the year, the German economy will grow very strongly in the summer quarter of 2020 and that, from today's perspective, the recovery of macroeconomic output will continue. ²⁾

Unfortunately, the consequences of the Corona pandemic have affected some of our portfolio companies. M1 Kliniken AG had to temporarily shut down their M1 treatment centres and surgical clinics, while HAEMATO AG was temporarily affected by the restrictions on intra-European trade. Due to the reduced valuations of the associated companies, the (reporting date related) Fair Value valuations of the financial assets of MPH AG also decreased, which led to a drop of the result to EUR -0.76 per share (previous year EUR -0.43 per share).

At EUR 5.58 per share, the net asset value (NAV) of MPH Health Care AG as of 30 June 2020 was below the previous year's value of EUR 5.86, but still significantly above the share price of EUR 2.97 (previous year EUR 4.22). IFRS equity decreased from EUR 271.6 million to EUR 239.0 million as of 30 June 2020.

Due to the current uncertainties associated with the Corona pandemic, our listed investments HAEMATO AG and M1 Kliniken AG decided at their Annual General Meetings in July 2020 not to distribute dividends in order to strengthen liquidity and to carry forward the results of the financial year 2019 in full to new account. Due to Corona conditions, the Annual General Meeting of CR Capital Real Estate will take place in autumn 2020. Consequently, the Annual General Meeting of MPH AG on 22 July 2020 concluded that no dividend will be paid in order to maintain sufficient financial reserves for further growth. In the first half of 2020, however, investment income (distributions) from non-listed investments amounting to kEUR 1,500 was received.

HAEMATO AG

Our investment HAEMATO AG is a pharmaceutical company focusing on growth markets of high-priced specialty pharmaceuticals in the areas of oncology, HIV, rheumatism, neurology and cardiovascular diseases. As a pharmaceutical wholesaler and manufacturer, it is a system-relevant company. With numerous organisational measures, HAEMATO AG has been able to maintain a regulated course of business to the greatest extent possible to ensure a constant supply of goods to customers.

This is also reflected in the sales development of the HAEMATO AG in the first half of 2020 totalling to EUR 115.8 million, which is 23% higher compared to the same period in 2019. The EBITDA for the first six months amounts to kEUR 2,066 and is thus also about 23% above the comparable value of the previous year of kEUR 1,675. The equity ratio as of 30 June 2020 rose from 56.2% (previous year) to 61.3%.

In the first quarter of 2020, the pharmaceutical authorities had already approved a completed secure storage area for the safekeeping of narcotics, so that the necessary infrastructure was put into operation. The first permits for parallel imports have been applied for and are expected to be granted in the next calendar year. This will enable HAEMATO to broaden its specialty pharmaceuticals product portfolio for customers.

M1 Kliniken AG

The strong growth course of the 2019 financial year – due to the continuing high demand for the medical and aesthetic services of M1 Med Beauty – was maintained in the first quarter of 2020. New treatment centres were opened in Liverpool and London and the Hanover and Berlin practices relocated to larger premises. Further openings are firmly on the agenda for the second half of 2020.

At the end of 2019, the network of treatment centres (in addition to the clinic in Berlin) comprised a total of 36 practices (previous year: 24). With the impact of the Corona pandemic, however, treatment centres and clinics had to close from 23 March 2020. The lockdown lasted slightly longer than expected, so treatment activities could only be resumed step by step in the course of May. The two centres in the UK remained closed even beyond 30 June 2020 and were reopened mid-August. In addition, the treatment centre in Melbourne had to be closed again as part of a second lockdown.

The developments relating to the Corona pandemic have left their mark on M1's financial figures. Although M1 is experiencing an ongoing increase in demand for medical and aesthetic services, the two-month closure has resulted in a loss of revenue. IFRS consolidated revenues amounted to EUR 29.1 million in the first half of 2020 compared to EUR 32.9 million in the first half of 2019. Earnings before taxes (EBT) for the reporting period fell to kEUR 2,523 compared to kEUR 5,183 as of 30 June 2019. Although some cost-cutting measures were implemented (e.g. short-time working; reduction of marketing expenses), other cost items (e.g. rental and leasing expenses) continued unchanged, thus impacting the half-year result.

CR Capital Real Estate AG

For CR Capital Real Estate AG, the fiscal year 2019 developed very positively. In order to set the course for future growth and the expansion of the business model towards a real estate investment company, accounting was changed to IFRS 10 at the end of last year. By measuring the investments of CR Capital Real Estate AG at fair value, the net income for the year increased to more than EUR 90 million (previous year: EUR 7.8 million). Equity rose to approx. EUR 200 million (previous year: EUR 35.4 million). In the past year, CR Capital continued to develop and invest in shareholdings along the real estate value chain that offer affordable housing and attractive investment opportunities.

CR Capital Real Estate AG announced at the end of July 2020 that, together with financial investors, it intends to establish a real estate portfolio company in the legal form of a Real Estate Investment Trust (REIT AG). Investments will mainly be made in newly built residential properties in Berlin and in the Berlin suburbs. With the future REIT AG, whose shares will be listed on the stock exchange, CR Capital Real Estate AG will offer private investors lucrative and tax-advantageous investment opportunities in real estate, even for smaller amounts.

I would like to express my sincere thanks for the commitment of the employees of the MPH group and wish that, above all, they remain in good health in these special times and that we can all return to our valued „normality“ as quickly as possible.

Our holdings are developing steadily and I am convinced that this will have a positive effect on the MPH share price in the future. I would also like to thank the Supervisory Board for its constructive cooperation during the period under review.

Global economic activity has fallen significantly in the first half of 2020 as a result of the Covid 19 pandemic, and is expected to fall by almost 10%. Although world production is expected to have bottomed out in April, the average for the current year is expected to be minus 3.8% (measured on a purchasing power parity basis), by far the biggest drop in the last 70 years. However, it appears that the bottom has now been reached. In fact, the Chinese economy has already recovered a substantial part of the production collapse of January and February. The speed and strength of the global recovery will depend not least on the epidemiological situation and on the policy response. Aggregate output is expected to grow strongly in the second half of this year, provided that the evolution of the pandemic allows for a sustained and broad-based relaxation of containment policies, and strong support from monetary and fiscal policy is maintained. ³⁾

The Eurozone is also in Corona crisis, and the measures to contain the pandemic have led to the biggest drop in economic activity since the creation of monetary union. Although most of the restrictions did not come into force until March, the decline in gross domestic product (GDP) was already 3.6% in the first quarter. A double-digit decline of over 13% is expected in the second quarter. In France, Italy and Spain, the decline in economic output is disproportionately high, as these countries were forced to take particularly drastic measures to control the spread of infection, such as extensive curfews and the closure of many production facilities. ⁴⁾

The Xetra closing price of MPH shares fell from EUR 4.22 on 28 June 2019 to EUR 2.97 on 30 June 2020; this corresponds to a decline of 29.6%.

The net asset value (NAV) of MPH Health Care AG was EUR 5.58 per share on 30 June 2020 (previous year EUR 5.86 per share). This corresponds to a reduction of 5.0% resulting from the fair value measurement of the share prices of the listed investments on 30 June 2020 based on the reporting date. Despite the current decline in share prices, MPH's future prospects are still regarded as good, which is also reflected in analyst ratings. Thus, the analysts of First Berlin Equity Research GmbH left the price target for MPH unchanged at EUR 7.50 on 30 June 2020.

Share price performance of MPH HEALTH CARE AG

HAEMATO AG is a listed pharmaceutical company. Its business activities focus on the growth markets of off-patent and patent-protected drugs in the insurance-financed market. The main focus is on the therapy areas oncology, HIV, neurology, rheumatology and other chronic diseases. The customers for these products are mainly pharmacies and wholesalers as well as doctors and hospitals.

The company has a broad customer base of over 4,800 pharmacies and wholesalers in Germany and over 1,300 pharmacies and wholesalers in Austria. The demand for inexpensive medicines of the highest quality, which are supplied at all times and meet the requirements for reliable and comprehensive medical care, will continue to grow in the coming years as the population's life expectancy increases. Interim Group Management Report

1. Business model of the company

MPH Health Care AG is a Berlin-based investment and holding company listed on the Frankfurt Stock Exchange (Basic Board). Its business activity consists of investing in companies with the aim of long-term asset growth.

The strategic focus of its activities lies on the acquisition and development of companies and company shares, particularly in growth segments of the health care market and the pharmaceutical industry. This includes both insurance-financed („first“ health care market) and privately financed segments (so-called „second“ health care market). In addition, MPH also exploits potential from other high-growth sectors outside these markets, such as the real estate industry. The aim is to generate profitable growth in the portfolio companies through active further development, thus promoting MPH's corporate value.

2. Economic report

MPH Health Care AG continued to invest in three listed companies (M1 Kliniken AG, HAEMATO AG, CR Capital Real Estate AG) in the first half of 2020. Compared to the previous year, the market value of these investments decreased by EUR 15.3 million to EUR 227.2 million as of 30 June 2020 based on the fair value evaluation of the share prices of these investments on the reporting date.

Due to the pandemic-related restrictions and continuing uncertainties about the further course of the pandemic, the listed investments M1 Kliniken AG and HAEMATO AG have decided this year, as a precautionary measure, not to distribute a dividend and to carry forward the results of the financial year 2019 in full to new account in order to strengthen the liquidity of the respective companies and to finance further growth. The subsidiary CR Capital Real Estate AG postponed its Annual General Meeting until autumn 2020. A vote on the distribution of the balance sheet profit 2019 has therefore not yet been taken.

As a result of these strategic decisions, MPH Health Care AG also decided at its Annual General Meeting on 22 July 2020 to carry forward its balance sheet profit of the fiscal year 2019 in full to new account and not to pay a dividend.

2.1. Global economic environment

According to the summer economic report published by IfW Kiel (Kiel Institute for the World Economy), the global economy experienced a historic drop in the first half of 2020. According to this report, global economic activity is expected to have fallen by around 10% in the first half of 2020 as a result of the Covid 19 pandemic. Although the low point in global production is likely to have been reached as early as April, the IfW is forecasting an average decline (measured on the basis of purchasing power parities) of 3.8% for the current year, by far the biggest decline in the past 70 years. For 2021, the IfW anticipates a strong 6.2% rise in production, but the drop in income caused by the Corona crisis and a presumably sustained slowdown in the propensity to invest will mean that the level of global production will probably remain well below the path expected at the beginning of the year for some time to come.⁵⁾ While the global economy is suffering in retrospect, leading indicators signal a recovery as the year progresses. Global industrial production was cut by around 12% year-on-year in April/May. Global trade in goods even fell by around 17%. The extent of the Corona recession in the first half of the year is also evident from initial reports from major economies on GDP development in the second quarter. In the Euro zone, GDP fell by 12.1% and in the USA by 9.5%.

However, sentiment indicators are sending positive signals for the second half of the year. The global purchasing managers' index (PMI) for industry published by J.P. Morgan / IHS Markit climbed above its growth threshold in July for the first time since January, at 50.3 points. The further development of the global economy depends largely on the course of the Corona pandemic and the measures and changes in behaviour to contain the further spread of the virus. Individual countries in different parts of the world are affected to varying degrees. According to the Robert Koch Institute, China, the starting point of the pandemic, is currently reporting only a low number of cases and is already in a phase of economic recovery with GDP growth of 11.5% in the second quarter compared to the previous quarter. Meanwhile other countries are developing into Corona hot spots (more than 120 cases per 100,000 inhabitants). These include the US, South Africa and parts of Latin America, including Brazil and Argentina. Increased numbers of cases can also be observed in Southern and Eastern Europe, such as Spain, Romania and Hungary, and in a weaker scale in Russia, India, Sweden and the UK. This shows that the foreign trade situation is likely to remain difficult for the German economy for some time to come. ⁶⁾

2.2. Economic forecast for Germany

In order to contain the spread of Coronavirus in Germany, far-reaching restrictions on economic activities were decided in March. This economic shutdown affected large parts of companies and self-employed people in Germany. Following a decline in infection rates, the restrictions were gradually relaxed throughout Germany. Nevertheless, the consequences are serious for the German economy: experts now expect the biggest recession in the history of the Federal Republic. According to the DIW forecast, GDP in Germany will fall by 9.4% year-on-year in 2020. For 2021, GDP is forecast to change by 3.0% compared with 2020. ⁷⁾

Change in GDP compared to previous year

Source: Federal Statistical Office, DIW Berlin

Economic output in Germany suffered slightly less in the Corona crisis than initially calculated. Gross domestic product (GDP) contracted by 9.7% in the second quarter of 2020 compared with the previous quarter, according to the Federal Statistical Office. In a first estimate, the Wiesbaden authorities had assumed minus 10.1%. The economic crisis is nonetheless historic, as even in the worst three months of the 2009 financial crisis the economy fell by less than 5%.

The economic crash was triggered by a collapse of exports and the health measures to contain the Corona pandemic: Shops, hotels and restaurants had to close, factories closed down, trade fairs, conferences and concerts were cancelled. The Corona recession also tore a huge hole in the German national budget. According to the Federal Statistical Office, the Federal Government, the Federal States, local authorities and social security funds combined spent EUR 51.6 billion more than they collected in the first half of the year. The deficit corresponds to 3.2% of GDP. In comparison, a surplus of EUR 46.5 billion was recorded in the first half of 2019. In the meantime, however, the situation is already starting to improve: For the current third quarter, economists expect significant growth due to the relaxation of the Corona restrictions. The Ifo index is also expected to rise for the fourth consecutive month in August. The managers surveyed in the industrial sector see their situation more positively than a few months ago. The biggest risk, however, is still a second wave of infection in Germany, which, with new restrictions on the economy, could in the worst case trigger another collapse including a wave of bankruptcies. The fact that German trading partners such as the USA or Great Britain, to which German companies normally sell many goods, are hit particularly hard by the pandemic, is also continuing to threaten German exports. ⁸⁾

2.3. Health care market in Germany

In 2019, the gross value added in the health care industry amounted to EUR 372 billion (previous year EUR 360 billion). This corresponds to around 12% of the gross value added in Germany. In 2019, approximately 7.5 million people were employed in the health care industry, which is almost 17% of all employees in Germany.

Gross value added in the health industry and its share in the overall economy

Source: BMWi: Health Economic Accounts (GGR), 2019 edition [*Forecast].

The current results of the health economic accounts show that the gross value added of the health industry has grown steadily over the last 10 years, much stronger than that of the overall economy. On average, it grew by 4.1% per year, while the economy as a whole grew by 3.3%. People are getting older and more health services are in demand. At the same time, medical and technical progress is creating better treatment success. Health care products „Made in Germany“ are in demand worldwide - all of which increases the gross value added of the health care industry in Germany.⁹⁾

In addition to the growing demand for better and more comprehensive medical care in the narrow sense, a large part of future growth will take place in the so-called second health care market. This will include both medical services and offers to meet health needs that go beyond the immediate scope of health care. The second health care market is not to be understood as a market for people with higher incomes. Rather, a growing secondary health care market is beneficial to all parties involved. This is because there is a (growing) willingness among the population to pay for services that offer an increase in health or even greater satisfaction.¹⁰⁾

3. Business development and position of the company

3.1. Business development

As an investment company, the strategic focus of our activities is on companies in high-growth segments of the health care market. This includes both insurance-financed and privately financed segments.

In accordance with IFRS 10.27, MPH Health Care AG has the status of an investment company which does not have to consolidate its subsidiaries (investments). All investments were measured at fair value through profit or loss in accordance with IFRS 9.

Investment income of kEUR 1,500 was generated in the first half of 2020. Due to the currently ongoing Corona pandemic, it is expected that the investment income of the major investments - HAEMATO AG, CR Capital Real Estate AG and M1 Kliniken AG - will not reach the level of previous years in 2020. The respective Annual General Meetings will take place in the second half of 2020.

3.2. Earnings situation of the MPH Group (IFRS)

In general, an investment company does not need to consolidate its subsidiaries or apply IFRS 3 if it obtains control of another entity. Instead, an investment company must measure its interest in a subsidiary at fair value through profit or loss in accordance with IFRS 9.

As of 30 June 2020, the overall result was kEUR -32,656 (previous year: kEUR -18,237). This essentially includes the results from the valuation of the investments as well as the income from the purchase and sale of investments. The effects of the pandemic were particularly noticeable in the first quarter of 2020. If the second quarter of 2020 is reviewed on its own, MPH achieved a total result of kEUR 54,819 in this period.

3.3. Financial position of the MPH Group (IFRS)

Our financial position can be described as very stable. Our financial management is geared to always settling liabilities within the payment period and collecting receivables within the payment period.

Cash and cash equivalents amount to kEUR 399 (previous year: kEUR 1,796). Other short-term assets amount to kEUR 1,930 (previous year: kEUR 305).

Other short-term financial liabilities decreased by kEUR 6,598 to kEUR 8,976 compared to 31 December 2019, which is mainly due to the repayment of a promissory note loan. Long-term financial liabilities account for 1.2% of the balance sheet total. MPH makes use of the credit lines granted by various banks in order to promote its business success. Our participations have higher credit lines than actually used on average.

Trade account payables can always be settled within the terms of payment.

Long-term investments are covered to 95.3% by our equity.

The liquidity situation is satisfactory.

In the first half of 2020, MPH did not make any investments in the acquisition of equity holdings.

4. Forecast report

We continue to evaluate the medium-term development of MPH Health Care AG as positive.

The market segments in which our portfolio companies operate continue to offer great growth potential. The demand for patent-free and patent-protected drugs and the production of medications for cancer therapies, HIV and other chronic diseases is rising steadily, only in part due to the increasing age structure of the population.

Beauty lifestyle services for private payers continue to be popular and continue to attract growing interest.

The demand for reasonably priced living space has exceeded the supply for years. Funding measures, such as the Construction Children's Allowance („Baukindergeld“), will further strengthen this trend.

Due to the Corona pandemic, we expect sales and business development of our investments to remain stable in the 2020 financial year, as certain catch-up effects are already evident now that the pandemic restrictions have been lifted. However, we are not yet able to make any statement on the development of the valuation of companies on the capital market. In this respect, the risks posed by Covid-19 in all areas cannot be fully estimated yet.

We will always be able to meet our payment obligations on time in the future.
